SPIRIT OF THE MORNING PRESS. The Union, of Sunday, in view of the day, heads its columns with a Fourth of July article. It further discusses our inter-Continental affairs, and suggests a more vigilant police over the Indian tribes. In reference to the difficulty between Senators Gwin and Wilson, the Union says the conduct of Senator Gwin was as completely approved by every member of the Senate, without distinction of party, as that of Mr. Wilson was emphatically condemned; but because the members of that body were unwilling that the disgrace of Senator Wilson should receive any further publicity, the entire proceedings in the Senate in reference to the dispute, have been excluded from the Congressional Globe.

The Intelligencer of yesterday discusses the Fourth of July.

WASHINGTON NEWS AND GOSSIP.

THE SEVENTH REGIMENT NEW YORK VOL-UNTEERS .- We understand that Col. Hickey has just received a telegraphic communication from Col. Duryee, commanding the Seventh New York Regiment, at Richmond, that the regiment will leave that place this afternoon at 4 o'clock for Mount Vernon and Washington. Their arrival in Washington cannot, therefore, be precisely fixed, as they are to come in their steamer-proceeding down the James river and up the Potomac, stopping at Mount Vernon on their way. The probability, however, is, that they cannot reach Washington until late to-morrow evening

WHISTLING TO KEEP THEIR COURAGE UP. The Philadelphia Press has an "Occasional' correspondent at this point, who varies his staple of wholesale and retail abuse of Demoerats in public life, at times, with efforts to misrepresent the true condition of affairs political at the South. His aim is to create the impression that a considerable wing of the Southern Democracy stand with Senator Douglas et al. (nominal Democrats) on the Kansas question; or, in other words, with the Republicans. The "splurges" of Mr. Frederick P Stanton, the eccentricities of Governor Wise, and the demagoguism of Mr. Duncan R. McRae, of North Carolina, (who foolishly hopes to become the opposition candidate for Governor of that State.) make up the sum and substance of the data on which Mr. "Oceasional" thus whistles | we'll have no d-d Gentiles among us." All by way of screwing them up to the point of continuing to labor to distract the Democratic party for the benefit of whom it may concernthe Republican party. Mr. "Occasional" professes to regard Messrs. Stanton, Wise and McRae as being decidedly the representative men of Southern Democratic-party opinion. Greater nonsense was never printed.

Mr. McRae is a disappointed office-seeker at the hands of the people, as is Mr. Aaron W. Venable-whilom a remarkably windy member of Congress from the same State, who is now ambitious to rival McRae in the affections of the "land distribution" Democrats (i. e. the opposition party) of North Carolina. Mr. Venable has been about the most pertinacious office-seeker we ever knew. He got into Congress by nominally turning Democrat; was the most vehement Pharisee in politics we ever knew while in the House, to the annoyance of the party there and the infinite disgust of the opposition. Since his district got rid of him he has been one of the most restless men in the State, making it ring from one end to the other with his "claims" on the party. They have been urged here, too, with zeal and pertinacity worthy of a far better cause. In neither quarter has Mr. Venable been successful in his aspirations. Hence Mr. Venable has turned "distribution" Democrat, with a virtual announcement that he hopes through that dodge to get into the Senate of the United States. We know North Carolina sufficiently well to rest satisfied that this last somersault of his will render assurance doubly sure that he will be compelled to continue in uneasy political obscurity for the balance of his days, sharing the fate of Mr. Duncan K. McRae.

So the political world wags in that quarter, where gentlemen holding his views will find themselves as powerless as Mr. Wise was before the Virginia Legislature, in his epistolary advocacy of the views of Senator Douglas on Kansas. It will be recollected that while the Philadelphia Press was first assuring its readers that Gov. Wise was carrying the State before him for anti-Lecomptonism, the Legislature was actually adopting strong pro Lecompon resolutions, in spite of the influence of the Governor's deserved personal popularity with not a few of the members of that body

As for Mr. Stanton in Tennessee-the idea that he possesses any influence there is preposterous. He long since abandoned Tennessee for the business of a claim agent here, which is his proper home if he has a fixed residence any where, we take it. Really no other man we know of has less identity or less weight in Tennessee, where his anti-Lecomptonism has met not a single sympathizer, unless it be some itinerant Yankce sojourning there to teach school, sell patent rights, put up cotton gins, or to some other such end. The truth is, no one at the South who even winked in favor of the views of Senator Douglas on the Kansas question, has failed to go so far to leeward as never to be heard of hereafter in politics; and the effort of Mr. "Occasional," of the Philadelphia Press, to create a contrary impression, simply amounts to whistling, as it were, to keep up the courage of those nominal Democrats of the North who would continue to play into the hands of the Republican party.

THE STATE OF THINGS IN UTAH .- We repub. lish the following from the special Utah correspondence of the New York Times, because a friend, familiar with the Mormons and their doings, assures us of the probable correctness of its statement of facts:

Two WEEKS LATER FROM UTAH .- The circumstances of the Governor's visit to Salt Lake Valley have been detailed to you already, I understand, in your correspondence from this point, but some additional facts have been developed within a day or two. The Governor has stated that he was not attended by any guard while in the Valley, and that all the people who desired had free access to him. He undoubtedly so supposed; but the proof is now indisputable that be was surrounded continually by a secret guard, who turned away every person whose communication with him was likely to be detrimental to the interests of the Theocracy. This we learn from a party of about 150 emigrants from Sait Lake, who arrived here night before last, having been permitted by Brigham to leave the Valley under a pledge given by him to Gov. Cumming, that all who desired to go out should do so freely. From these, as also from Mr. Richard James, of whom I shall have something more to say, we learn that, after Cumming returned to camp from the Valley, Brigham, and others of the hierarchy, spoke of him in public meetings in the mest disrespeful and filthy manner, boasting of the ease with which they had hoodwinked him, and declaring that he could never be their Governor. Indeed, even on the afternoon succeeding the morning in which Governor Cum ming made his speech in the Tabernacle, Brigham applied opproprious epithets to him from the same pulpit. He remarked that Cumming, on that morning, had said that he was bappy to have the privilege of meeting the people of Sait Lake there. "I could have called him a liar

CON BOLL SON SERVICE OF SON

not sent Colonel Kane to him two or three times to assure him that he would be in no danger of

It may be proper here to state that Mr. James was told by Bishop Butler, of Spanish Fork, that Colonel Kane was re-baptised and received his endowments immediately upon his arrival at Salt Lake City from California. In Provo city, on the Sunday following Cumming's visit there, Brigham, in a sermon, spoke as follows: Governor Cumming has been here and promised the people protection! indeed! but the poor, lousy old curse can't protect himself, much less any body else. Why, I have to send a guard around with him to prevent the people from cutting his throat." Subsequently he stated that Salt Lake city was his individual property—he would burn it down to morrow. He had moved the people all south, however, and it was his purpose to burn the city any how, as soon as the troops should approach it. He told the people, however, to keep perfectly quiet; to settle down in the southern settlements to which they had removed, cultivating their crops; and in sixty days, or as soon as Colonel Kane could go to Washington and back, he would tell them whether they were to remain in the Valley or leave it. Mr. James thinks that if the Mormons leave the Valley, it is Brigham's intention to strike across the White Mountains, and then proceed northward to the British Possessions. The Mormons assert, doubtless, falsely, that they have recently received from the British Government encouragement to go into their Possessions on the Pacific. He does not doubt that Brigham will destroy Salt Lake as soon as the troops approach it, as they have already burned the northern settlements of Box Elder and Willow Creek.

The march via the White Mountains to the British Possessions, would be some 700 or 800 miles. Brigham, however, seems to be prepared for his own escape in an emergency, having kept a held of some fifty or sixty superior mules, belonging to the church, in fine condition, down in San Pete Valley, 132 miles south of Salt Lake, and in the neighborhood, to which he has conveyed his spirituals. There is no doubt that they are designed for his own and his harem's flight. Mr. James states that Gov. Cumming's Mormon guard, when he visited Provo, consisted of Howard Egan, John Kay, Fayette Worthen, David Candland, Wm. Kemble and Col. Kane. In view of such details as these, it would seem difficult to doubt that the Governor was mistaken in supposing his own movements in the Vailey to h. v en so entirely free of espionage and restraint. Just after the Governor left Provo, John Young, brother of the prophet, in a "sermon" preached at Spanish Fork, which Mr. James heard, told the people not to be uneasy about leaving their homes, but to go on with their improvements, in the faith that the army would never interrupt them. "If we give them Salt Lake City," he continued, " that will fill the bill; and if they attempt to come around the point of the mountain,

(which divides Salt Lake Valley from Utab Val--v") Brother Brigham will make a bone-yard of the place, for not a single soldier shall enter here "He has thus far kept the boys off, but if they provoke his wrath, he will let them have full play, and wipe out the scoundrels Brethren, let us listen to what our Governor says. Brig ham is our Governor, always has been, and al ways will be. He is the only man who ever can govern this people. Let old Governor Comming go to h-l, where he will go soon, any way, with all his d-d party. The old scoundrel got up and said he wanted the ladies on his side, and d-n him, that is all they do want. His speech was something li e the one Brocchus made. When he came out here he said in the Tabernucle that he wanted the ladies on his side, and it was hard work for Brother Brigham to keep the people from cutting his throat the moment he left the pulpit. The Lord has fought our battles so far, and he will fight them again, and so to the Northern followers of Senator Douglas this should be very encouraging to Governor Cumming, who seems to think he can mould

Brigham & Co., at will like wax The company of emigrants from Salt Lake city who arrived here a day or two ago, are camped just outside the picket lines. Most of them are of English birth, though a few are Americans. They are unanimous in the declaration that the United States troops would never have met with any serious opposition in attempting to enter the Valley, and that if protection should be afforded to them by the troops, full one half of the entire Mormon community would embrace the opportunity to flee from the moral and political slavery in which they are held.

IUDIAN AFFAIRS .- The Indian Bureau is in receipt of late advices from Dr. Forney, Superintent of Indian Affairs in Utah, dated at Fort Bridger. Dr. F. says that he had visited several of the tribes in that district and reconciled differences between them. He found them generally desirous of preserving pacific relations toward the Government, and apprehends no immediate danger of difficulties with them. He intended to visit other tribes as soon as Dispatches of a late date have also been received from Agent Anderson, at Fort Pierre, in Nebraska, who says that the Indians there disregard the Lauvamie treaty altogether, and are constantly committing depredations on each other and on the white settlers. It is with difficulty they are induced to accept the presents from the Government, and Mr. A. thinks if it were not for the presence of the United States forces in the vicinity there would be great danger of an outbreak.

PROPOSALS FOR STATIONARY FOR THE DE-PARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR .- The proposals filed at the Department of the Interior before 12 o'clock, on the 30th ultimo, for furnishing stationery for the Department and the several offices thereof for the next fiscal year-to June 39, 1859-were opened some days since, and duly canvassed, as we announced.

The result showed Messrs. Blanchard & Mo hun, of this city, to be the lowest bidders, and the contract was accordingly awarded to them, as mentioned at the time, in the Star.

GEORGETOWN.

Correspondence of The Star. GEORGETOWN, July 6, 1858 We have no recollection of ever previously seeing our national anniversary celebrated by our citizens with so much spirit and unanimity. At an early hour in the morning business of nearly every kind was almost entirely suspended, and every one-young and old, male and femaleseemed only disposed to give themselves up to the celebration of the occasion in the most spirited and rational manner, and all betook themseives to the points where the exercises would be most likely to please their own fancy. The chief and most interesting feature of the day's exercises was the grand Union Sabbath School celebration in Jewett's Grove. Early our streets were literally thronged with young souls wending their way to their various schoolrooms. At 7% o'clock a merry peal was sounded by the Bridge street Presbyterian Church bell as a signal for each school to form and move towards the point, designated for meeting, and forming the procession Soon a more beautiful sight we never beheld than our streets presented as school after school, bearing aloft their banners in the stiff cool breeze, came pouring in, all clad in the neatest and most beautiful manner, and wearing the peculiar badge selected for the occasion.

Ail the schools having arrived, the Chief Marshal, A. Hyde, Esq., with the assistance of his aids, proceeded to form the line, which was soon done, with almost as little disorder and nearly as much precision as would characterize an army of well drilled soldiers. At 8 o'clock the brilliant pageant moved off towards the point for spending the day in the following order:

The Presbyterian school, bearing a lovely banner-front, white satin ground; device, the Good Shepherd; motto, "Feed My Lambs;" reverse side, blue ground and date of organization of school, 1816; the whole trimmed with heavy silver bullion, and draped in scarlet. Aids to the Chief Marshal, John Gray and John Reside. The Dumbarton street M. E. school. Banner with white satin front; device, Christ blessing infant classes and mission schools, each bearing some significant and appropriate device and motto, which we would like to notice more particularly, but are debarred the privilege by want I time and space. The morning was delightfully pleasant, and only about half an hour's time was required to enable the long line to reach the grove. Having reached the spot, the immense concourse was called to order by the chief marshal in few happy emarks, and the exercises proceeded in the foilowing order Music by Withers's Band, and singing, " My country, 'tis of thee.'

stand was soon deserted, the grove was soon almost carpeted with white cloths, and covered with almost every delicacy that the most fastidious appetite could desire, and a general and unbounded hospitality characterized every teacher and other person who had come out prepared to devote the day to real, rational and praiseworthy joyment. At the close of the time allotted for refreshments and recreation, at the roll of the drum, the immense throng, which had by this time become agmented to at least two thousand souls, again assembled, when, after singing by the Schools and music by the band, the Rev. The prizes, three handsome silver medals, which had been provided for the ceasion, were awarded as follows: first, to Master Charles Williams of the West Georgetown school second, to Master Granville Hyde, of Christ Church School, and the third to Master George Thomas, of West Georgetown

The exercises on the ground were under the supervision and conducted by Jenkin Thomas Esq , and the singing led by Mr. W. H. Wil-liams, the chief marshal, and Lieutenant Colone Thomas. Everything passed off in the most happy manner, and not the most trifling occurrence of any kind transpired during the entire day that we have heard of to mar the peace or interrupt the enjoyment of any one participating in

ALPEANDRIA, Va., July 6, 1858. The Hydraulion Fire Company received from Baltimore, yesterday, a handsome four-wheeled hose carriage, with which they paraded, about 8% o'clock, under the command of Mr. James A. Proctor, Acting Assistant Engineer. There were quite a number of the members in line, but owing to some misunderstanding they did not receive their new uniform in time, and appeared in citizens' dress, headed by martial music. The new carriage was built by Wm M. Ives, and is a very fine specimen of werkmanship. The running ear is of buff color, striped with gold; the spool of the same, with ornamental painting between the spokes; and the springs, boxes, &c . of dark blue. On the front box is a handsome scroll, bearing the motto of the Company - "Pubic good our only aim;" and on the hind box a similar scroll, with "Hydraulion," and beneath, 1827," the date of institution. The bell frame is brass, and bears two very fine bells. The hubs, pole, boxes, &c . are fully brass mounted. It is really a fine addition to the apparatus of

The city was very quiet yesterday, most perons pic nic-ing in the country. The only semblance of a row was created by some disorderly fellows, who, having obtained a small cannon, menaced the Hydranijon Fire Company, and afterwards, having loaded it with stones and brickbats, threatened to attack the Relief Engine House. The execution of their design was preprevented by the police and sundry citizens. They were said to belong to one of the other fire companies. If this be true it is to be hoped that their fellow members will deal with them as they deserve. Our fire department is noted for its good conduct, and everything tending to cre ate bad feeling and riot will, no doubt, be promptly suppressed.
